

Dear Families,

I hope you are all doing well and staying safe. I wanted to provide you with some important announcements and updates for this week.

Podcasts

We are wrapping up our podcast project this week, and I am happy to report that your students have been doing an amazing job! They have shown great creativity and innovation in coming up with their podcast ideas. I can't wait to listen to their final recordings next week. Also, so that you can also listen to your students podcasts, I will be creating a classroom website where you can find your students podcast. I will share the website link with you in next week's newsletter.

Assignments

I wanted to bring to your attention that I will be out of the classroom on Friday. Therefore, it is crucial that your students complete their assignments on Canvas. I have noticed that some e-learning and substitute assignments have not been completed. It is important that we maintain consistency in their learning, even in my absence. Thank you for your cooperation in ensuring your child completes their work.

Upcoming Holiday

Just a reminder that next Monday, February 19th, is Presidents Day, and there will be no school that day. It's a great opportunity for families to spend quality time together and honor our past presidents.

Expressing Gratitude

I want to express my gratitude to each of you. Together, we can help your children thrive and reach their full potential. Below, are some pictures from our brain break last Thursday.

As always, if you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to reach out to me. Have a wonderful week ahead!
